

Relevant Experience

Columbia University

Adjunct Professor

2012–Present

New York, NY

- Designed a lab to teach computational statistics to data science students
- Taught two sections a week to students from stats, journalism, business & sociology departments
- Covered basic programming, modelling, data manipulation, machine learning, visualization and communication